Perspectives on Death and Dying

View/Open:
- View/Open: se0033.pdf (96 kB)

Creator:
Philip A. Pecorino, Ph.D.
Philip A. Pecorino, Ph.D.

Permanent Link:
http://hdl.handle.net/10822/556230

Date:
No Date

Subject:
Undergraduate Syllabus; Death; Euthanasia; Suicide; Hospices; Terminal Care; Organ Transplantation;

Type:
Syllabus

Collections:
Bioethics Syllabus Exchange Repository

Metadata:
Show full item record

Related items

Showing items related by title, author, creator and subject.

Bregman, Lucy (1999-01)
Dr. Crystal Moore: From a personal perspective, my only sibling died miserable, suffering death from ovarian cancer at the age of 43. She absolutely refused the care and relief that hospice could have provided her. As such she suffered long and died hard. And we as a family suffered along with her, watching agony. It was awful. My mother recurred with breast cancer (she was a 15-year survivor) during the stress of my sister’s illness. She died a short two years after my sister. But my mother choose hospice care. This death was still hard on the family but at least we had the comfort, reassuran