Why Does this Site Require Cookies?

This site uses cookies to improve performance by remembering that you are logged in when you go from page to page. To provide access without cookies would require the site to create a new session for every page you visit, which slows the system down to an unacceptable level.

What Gets Stored in a Cookie?

This site stores nothing other than an automatically generated session ID in the cookie; no other information is captured.

In general, only the information that you provide, or the choices you make while visiting a web site, can be stored in a cookie. For example, the site cannot determine your email name unless you choose to type it. Allowing a website to create a cookie does not give that or any other site access to the rest of your computer, and only the site that created the cookie can read it.

The schools of pharmacy are the primary source of the profession of pharmacy’s scientific and professional knowledge base, the skills required to practise the art and science of the profession and the values, attitudes, and behaviours related to the social and cultural norms of the profession. Schools of pharmacy serve as the source of the profession’s workforce and as such, play a critical role in determining the quality and quantity of the members of the profession. Significant debate around the social purposes of higher education in a democracy was evident at the time and indeed still continues today. The School of Pharmacy faculty are educators first—many hold advanced degrees in education—and they are committed to providing students with every opportunity to realize their goals of becoming Doctors of Pharmacy. The LECOM School of Pharmacy offers three pathways to the PharmD degree. The Lake Erie College of Osteopathic Medicine (LECOM) recognized the growing national need for pharmacists and opened the School of Pharmacy in 2002.

LECOM believes that new trends in the Doctor of Pharmacy curriculum have complementary goals to the total-person, patient-centered care fostered by osteopathic medicine.
