Notice "Colour. A study of its position in the art theory of the Quattro & Cinquecento"

Auteurs
- Gavel, Jonas

Code AATA de l'auteur
- GAVEL, JONAS

Titre de la source
Colour. A study of its position in the art theory of the Quattro & Cinquecento

Titre de la série
Stockholm studies in the history of art. 32

Éditeur/distributeur
Almqvist & Wiksell International

Ville de l’éditeur / distributeur
Stockholm

Pays de l’éditeur / distributeur
Sweden

Date de publication
19790000

Collationnement
178 p. : 1 pl. depl., 21 cm.

ISBN
91-22-00296-0

Langue du texte
English

Mots clés anglais-sujet
- Colour, measurement

Mots clés français-sujet
- Couleur, mesure

Résumé
A book on colour in the art theory of the Quattro and Cinquecento. Part 1 of the book covers the philosophical scientific background: light and colour, perception, the four elements, formal beauty. Part 2 on the Renaissance deals with: colour scales, definitions, colour as paint; colour as visual stimulus, colour as an illusionistic medium, and colour as an informative, expressive and affective medium. Each chapter includes numerous annotated references. Extensive bibliography (14 pages) covers sources from Antiquity and the Middle Ages, Renaissance sources and contemporary studies.

Établissement d’origine
ICCROM
Color Theory - A complete guide to understanding color and how it's used in artworks. Understanding each section of color theory fully, will help you better understand its importance in the creation of art. DOWNLOAD VIDEO. Color Theory Part 1- The Color Wheel. The color wheel was developed by Sir Isaac Newton by taking the color spectrum and bending it into a circle. If you follow around the color wheel, you will find the same order of the color spectrum—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo (blue-violet), and violet. Some remember it by the acronym ROY G. BIV. The color wheel is made up of three different types of colors—Primary, Secondary, and Tertiary. The primary color... A Study in the Relations between Italian Art and Society in the Age of the Baroque’, 1963 by LOUISE RICE IN THE PREFACE to the third and (as he described it) final edition were not the traditional questions of attribution and dating, style of Patrons and Painters, written shortly before his death in 2000, and iconography, but rather ‘the character, social status, wealth, prince-electors, cento and early cinquecento Florence.2 But no comparable whose penchant for pictures of nudes accounts in part for the overview existed for the later period. No one today would declined, so its importance as an international centre of the art seriously question that the subject of his book falls squarely trade grew. The patronage of the great patrician families, still within the purview of art history. Colour. A study of its position in the art theory of the quattro- and cinquecento. Stockholm. Harva, Uno 1948. Suomalaisten muinaisusko. Porvoo, Helsinki. Hwb. d. Abergl.: Hoffmann-Krayer, E. 1935. John Constable, rainbow science, and English color theory. The Art Bulletin, Vol 64, 3, 424-445. SKVR I: Hurt, Jakob. 1904. Setukeste laulud. I. Helsinki. Mitrofanova, V. V. (ed.) 1968. Zagadki.